Commissioner Jane E. Henney,

As a consumer, concerned citizen and advocate of healthy choices in eating, I urge you to help save future human lives by banning the use of medically useful antibiotics in animal feed. The addition of antibiotics to feed to promote animal growth has been proven to make bacteria resistant to those antibiotics over time. This procedure is adding to the plight of physicians who are finding fewer ways to treat life-threatening bacterial infections in humans with the available antibiotics. I support the Center for Science in the Public Interest (CSPI)'s filed petition on this matter.

Respectfully,
